Kitchen Remodel with Big Structural Changes

Before

2634 Devonshire Road, Ann Arbor

Project Description

A warm and open Japanese inspired kitchen is awaiting your visit. This Ann Arbor Hills mid-Century home was built in 1955 and originally had quite a small kitchen. The previous homeowners added a breakfast room onto the front of the house, but were unable to open it to the kitchen properly. Our team solved the floor plan for the new owners by accepting the structural challenges. We raised part of the roof and ceiling and raised the floor of the old addition to match the level as the main house, thus turning it into one contiguous space. The resulting floor plan is gracious and inviting. Come see the warmth of our custom cabinets, the pillowed edge doors, the custom dining table, the tile work, and the wonderful ergonomic features of this beautifully designed kitchen.

About Rochman Design-Build

At RDB, we have a core philosophy that the remodeling journey is as important as the final destination. Our in-house designers start with inspirational designs that harmonize, enhance, and enliven each home's existing style. Our in-house carpentry staff then brings those visions to life with the utmost care, ensuring a predictable and dependable process. In addition, our owner and design director, Gary Rochman, is personally involved with every project. The best of both worlds – fresh and young ideas combined with 30 years of experience and knowledge.

From Washtenaw Ave. go east on Devonshire Rd. The house is on the right side, 3/4 mile down the road.
