Kitchen Remodel Plus Primary Suite Addition

Laura McCaffery Photography

2921 Provincial Drive, Ann Arbor

While they loved their Ann Arbor Hills location, the owners of this 1966 house enjoy entertaining and found the tiny rooms cramped their family lifestyle.

Redesigning and expanding the first floor added a large, open kitchen with skylights over the dual islands. A walk-in pantry provides much-needed space for storage and cooking. In addition, an elegant butler's pantry links the new formal dining room and kitchen, providing space for serving food and drinks. On the second floor, a new primary suite boasts a fresh design with a large bedroom, spacious walk-in closet, spa-like bathroom, and a home gym.

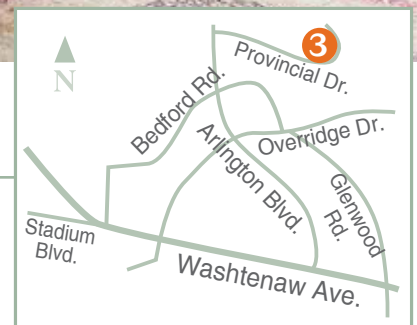

From the outside, the addition blends right in. It's hard to tell that this house is much larger than before the remodel!
