4319 Lakeside Forest Drive East, Ann Arbor

Some things are better left in the 90's; acid-wash jeans, slip dresses, and plaid flannel shirts for example. Our client had an outdated bathroom straight out of the 90's, with lots of glass block, a corner tub, no cabinet or counter space, and pedestal sinks. Not only were these decoration trends that should have stayed in the 90's, but they didn't fit the client's functional needs or minimalist décor style.

This presented an exciting design challenge. First, our client wanted a "wow" wall in their shower. Not just any tile would do, so we scoured dozens of tiles to find just the right one. They also wanted a bathroom they could live with for the rest of their lives with wheelchair access to the shower and closet. Since there would be no shower door, extra attention to design and flow was required. With the large, unused corner tub removed, our designer brainstormed to find the right storage and cabinetry to lend to the open feel of the bathroom. Finally, several upgrades were added, including heated floors, in-drawer electrical outlets, a bidet with a frosted glass privacy wall, and heated towel bars, creating the spa-like feel our clients were looking for.
