1021 Spring Street, Ann Arbor

This 1940s home has long been surrounded by the beauty of the gardens its owners have cultivated. The interior was begging for the same treatment. Riemco envisioned a creative rearrangement that transformed the Kitchen into an elegant space for daily life and entertainment. The charm of the home was preserved while lending modern conveniences. A butler's pantry neatly tucks prep space and large appliances out of sight while keeping them close at hand. Additionally, two bathrooms were renovated to create a spa-like feel in a tight space. The results abound with period-appropriate flair and a modern simplicity.
